

Our Mission:

To provide information related to the development of effective organizations.

The Scope of Our Effort:

Our research covers national and international issues for public and private organizations. The potential for organizations to impact their membership as well as others is significant. Organizations maximize their potential effectiveness when key fundamentals are in place and utilized. This website is designed as a resource for information and materials related to building effective organizations.

Have a Comment or Question? Contact: dennis1@compcite.com

Coming soon: Studies examining adversarial relationships. Every organization has an adversary. It may be a regulator, a competitor, someone who feels aggrieved or may be just someone who wants to challenge or "test" how another organization might respond, say, to a perceived threat. These studies report on our efforts to examine adversarial events. We use them to test our theories, to advance our research or to examine existing thresholds related to organizational theory, economics, politics or social interaction. Look for them later this year.